

Bonjour Frère,

I'm sorry that I couldn't contact you sooner. I heard about what happened to mère. I was told that she passed away after she got smallpox a couple weeks ago. I wish I could have been there to say goodbye and to see you and our sœur. I miss being home; It doesn't feel like home here without you guys and the rest of our family.

Adieu

Bonjour Frère,

It has been a while since I last heard from you. Many of the french-speaking people here in Quebec are worried about losing our language and our culture because of how many english speaking immigrants are coming into Canada. I personally am afraid of this because our language and culture is one of the only things that help me feel like I still have some connection to you guys and my home country. I hope to hear from you soon.

Bonjour Frère,

Its nice to hear that you and the rest of our family. I've been doing fairly well too. It has still been busy and everything with all of the Immigrants that have been coming into Canada. Since it's winter right now, the weather has been very cold. I can't wait for the spring; I like to see all the tall green trees and the bright coloured flowers. I will try to write you again soon.

Adieu

Bonjour Frère,

Not much has changed much since last time we have spoken. My husband and I are fine. There has been a lot of immigrants coming to Canada since Clifford Sifton advertised our land in the United States. I have not noticed it too much though; when Clifford Sifton advertised the land, most of the immigrants went to the western part of Canada like the Canadian prairies. I hope to hear from you again soon.

Adieu

There has been a lot of immigrants coming into Canada lately, especially since Clifford Sifton started advertising Canada's land in the west. The people here in Quebec are starting to get even more concerned because a large amount of the immigrants coming into Canada are English speaking.
