Self-Reflection

In English, I did a project called All About Me where I wrote a descriptive paragraph about an event that made me who I am. I also made a poster that was the same theme as my paragraph, and it had many different facts about me on it. In addition, I presented my poster to the class. I think that I demonstrated both the communication and the positive personal and cultural identity core competencies. In my poster, I wrote about different facts about myself like three things I am good at, three words that best describe me, top three dreams, top three careers and more. This demonstrates my positive personal and cultural identity skills because I showed my personal values, choice, strengths, and abilities. When I presented my project, I reflected and communicated with my class on why I put some of those facts in as well as why I chose my six-word story and what the theme of my paragraph was. This was when I demonstrated my communication skills. Overall, I think I did well on this project.
