

Community Connection

An important skill in the 21st Century is making connections with others. Connections lead to friendships, jobs, opportunities. They open the door for collaboration and cultivation of relationships. The goal of this assignment is for you to find someone who is involved in something that you care about and interview them. You will share your take-aways from the interview on your Edublog.

Instructions

- 1) Choose someone who is involved with something that you are passionate about. This could be a job, a volunteer role, a skill, or a hobby.
- 2) Connect with this individual and plan a time when you can interview them using technology (avoid face to face contact, notify your parents). Options for your interview include, but are not limited to Skype, Facetime, Zoom, Teams, email, DMs through social media platforms, etc.
- 3) Converse with the individual asking them the questions below, as well as your own questions. Either record the responses or document them in written form.
- 4) Create a post on your Edublog account outlining what you learned from the interview and how it connects to you. Your response can be in the form of a video, or a written response (combining pictures and words).
