

PUBLIC BROADCASTING

Public broadcasting has different platforms that it uses to convert information to its viewers. Two of the main ones include radio and television along with many more.

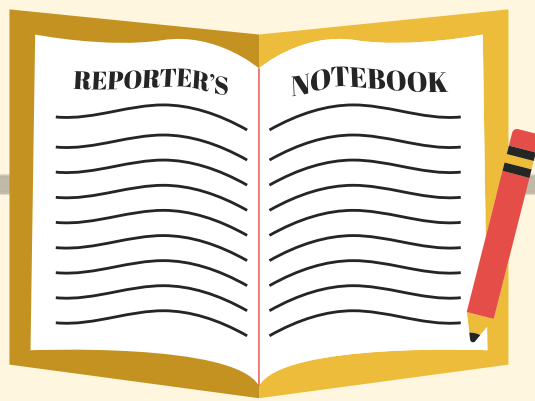

One problem that some people hate about public broadcasting include taxes that are charged by the government to go towards different types of businesses and foundation that people might not be interested in.

All countries have their own public broadcaster including Canada. Canada's public broadcaster is known as CBC or Canadian Broadcasting Corporation.

CBC broadcasts different kinds of news and entertainment that include music, articles, etc.

It expands to different types of social media which include Instagram, Twitter, Facebook, etc.

Many individuals still use public broadcasting which includes watching the news or different types of sports through CBC in Canada or their country's broadcasting network. It's free entertainment along with news.
