

The process in making the newspaper article for Marionettes Inc. was not that much. I first initially started with writing about Harrison Bergeron but while I was writing I kept getting stuck at the same spot. Whether I was close to three quarters done to five sentences. So, I switched over to Marionettes Inc. which I finished in under twelve hours because it was a lot easier, and I had no problem with finding what I need. It was a lot better and more Newspaper like material. The picture that I had used in the article was hand drawn. I do give some credits to my sister who helped me draw it since I sort of lack creativity in that area. The story takes place in 1989 where this man, Brailing, can't go anywhere because of his wife always knowing needing to be with him all the time and so Brailing got tired of it and created a robot of him to be with his wife while he was out with his friends. This story had a lot of things to write about which also made it a little hard because I just didn't know where to start and when it would be a good time to end the article. Overall I enjoyed making it and I didn't find it too difficult after I changed the topic.
