Self-Reflection
Describe how the artifact you selected shows your strengths & growth in specific core competencies. The prompt questions on the left - or other self-assessment activities you may have done - may guide your reflection process.

I feel like this math exponents project has helped me demonstrate strengths and growth in the thinking competences because it really helped me review a topic I've gone over several times, and sometimes I would even get confused and would have to stop and think for a couple minutes to see if I was doing this correctly, things like that. Some of the learning outcomes really made me struggle and think for a couple minutes about how I could make my way around this problem and show it to an audience so that it's easy to understand, and so I had to think very hardly in those aspects. I feel like I showed growth because this assignment helped me build a structure that I can use so that in the future I will be stronger at thinking of other ideas that I could use to help others. Usually, I'm not very good at being creative and thinking of new ideas and things like that but after this assignment it has really helped me think more, and say to myself: what can I do better next time to improve this, what could I have made simpler, etc. In the future, I think that I could further develop my thinking competencies by just practicing more with these type of assignments, like how can I be stronger and better at explaining and putting all of my ideas on paper in a way so that a lot more people would understand, or how could I improve these ideas so that next time they will be more clear to an audience, things like that. I also think that the next time that I work on a project like this, I can help others as well if they are stuck on something to make sure that they understand as well.
