Self-Reflection

Describe how the artifact you selected shows your strengths & growth in specific core competencies. The prompt questions on the left - or other self-assessment activities you may have done - may guide your reflection process.

As one of our major assessments in French 12 we were assigned to choose a subject and to choose a side whether we were for or against the subject, and to defend it using evidence and by answering questions from listeners who had to take the opposing side. Overall, I believe that my partner and I did a great job at not only answering the questions, but also in using a wide range of french vocabulary while we were presenting our texts in front of the class. I believe that we also did a good job at answering the questions that were presented forth and that we had good counter-arguments against what was asked towards us. This debate as a whole changed my perspective on a variety of subjects due to how well some groups articulated their information, and I'm glad to have taken part in such assessment due to how it contributed positively towards my oral and critical thinking and speaking. Although these debates were a great experience, there were also a lot of challenges that I came across both during the process and also during the debate. For one, answering both the teacher and the student teachers' questions were difficult due to them being able to catch onto little details and mistakes that we would have made during our oral presentation. Something else that I found somewhat difficult was also coming up with answers on the spot; due to not knowing what the questions would be beforehand it was quite hard to come up with an answer on the spot. Some of the questions asked were really good points and so it was tough creating a counter-argument right after they asked their question. Even though there were difficulties that both my partner and I came across, I think that overall it was a great learning experience and that it was a good way to develop the competencies that we needed work on both in terms of communication and also in critical thinking.
