English 9 – Partner Paragraph

Chelsey Whitmore is unique and describes herself as a dead tree. I interviewed a classmate, Chelsey Whitmore, and found her to be a very kind and smart person. I asked her seven questions about herself and I found her answers to be very insightful and well thought through. She also answered with complete honesty and was very truthful. She really reflects the critical thinking competency, because she was thoughtful in her answers and had a good idea about what she wanted. Her answer was unique when answering the questions such as 'in the event of an apocalypse, which three items would you choose to keep?'. She said that she would keep straws that filter water, a first aid kit, and other safety items. I found this to be a very intriguing answer. This provide me with some knowledge of what she would value in an apocalypse. For me, I would have saved my family, so I found it very interesting that she chose to save herself. She also had a very interesting perspective on life. She told me that a question about life that she would like to know the answer about was 'What if there is a meaning to life that we have overlooked completely?'. I thought this question was a deep-thinking question that made me really think about life and what it means. Chelsey Whitmore is a very interesting person who is very smart and realistic, and I really enjoyed interviewing her.
