

Setting

Story sets place at Jackson Mississippi in 1962

Tone

The tone of this story is told through three voices in this story Aibileen, Minny and Skeeter

The book comes out in an Ms Hilly finds out that it's about Jackson Mississippi but tells everyone it's not because they put the pie story in it

Story takes place in Jackson Mississippi, The main characters are Aibileen, Skeeter, Minny

Aibileen, Minny and Skeeter start working on the book. Ms Hilly starts catching on to Skeeter because they are somewhat relating it to Hilly

Aibileen, Skeeter, Minny realize there's no point in getting mad on Hilly. They overcome her tricks and evilness

The book ends up with some questions like, will anyone get hurt because of the book, will Miss Celia's husband find out about Minny and more.

Theme

The theme in this novel is change. Many examples of change are in this novel like when asking if Minny will leave her abusive husband? and eat

the Help

By Kathryn Stockett

Expository Paragraph

The Help is a book about black maids back in Jackson Mississippi in 1962. The story was told through Skeeter, Minny, and Aibileen. They come together to write a book about black maids and eat. The antagonist Hilly figures out that the book is made about Jackson Mississippi and tells everyone. "The book is not about Jackson!"

Characterization

Compassionate

Despite having to work for Ms. Celia, Minny is compassionate about her job and does the best she can do every time

"Every morning, until you're dead in the ground, you've got to make this decision. You've got to ask yourself, 'Am I going to believe what those fools say about me today?'"

brave

Minny is brave despite having an abusive husband, she still goes home and works hard to feed and support her family

loving

Minny is a loving person, she loves her family, Ms. Celia. She also loves working for Ms. Johnson and shows her passion with her cooking. She also shows her love with Aibileen

"You are kind. You are smart. You are important."